(Re)accrediting the Kelsey Museum of Archaeology: Plans for Marketing, Development, and Interpretive efforts

Madeleine Harris, Anwar Mohamed, Patricia Torres-Pineda

Challenge: To develop the first marketing, development, and interpretation plans for the Kelsey Museum of Archaeology (KMA). These plans align with the KMA's strategic planning for the 2025-2029 period and provide a roadmap for continued commitment to excellence in interpretation, marketing, and development strategies at the Kelsey.

6:00 pm

"My Doors are Widely Swung": Imagining the Stone House as a Multi-purpose Community Space for the Theodore Roethke Foundation

Timilehin Ayelagbe, Justin Chun-Yin Cheng, Ana Santory Rodriguez, Natasha Stepanova

Challenge: To develop resources and best practice recommendations for transforming the historic Stone House into a multi-purpose, multi-generational space for cultural and educational opportunities for the Friends of Theodore Roethke Foundation.

7:00 pm

Advancing Collection Management at the Secunda Museum

Marthe Djilo Kanga, Georgia Oppenheim, Rukmini Swaminathan

Challenge: To identify best practices for the management of the Secunda Collection at Cleary University through the lens of collections scope, governance, and storage.

These Capstone Projects were sponsored by the Kelsey Museum of Archaeology, Friends of Theodore Roethke Foundation, Cleary University, and the Arthur Secunda Museum. Thank you for your support of the UM Museum Studies Program.
